Breast Cancer CARE & TREATMENT GUIDELINES

Helping Women Make Informed Treatment Choices

Date:

Wed. November 14, 2001, 8 pm (EST)

Audience:

Patients, family and friends

Topic:

For women with breast cancer, making sense of treatment options is a top priority. A set of guidelines developed by Canadian breast cancer experts makes that task a lot easier. Part of Health Canada's Canadian Breast Cancer Initiative, the guidelines explore treatment options.

Two 15 minute audio-visual presentations followed by a question and answer period.

Moderator:

Dr. Mark Levine, medical oncologist at the Cancer Care Ontario Hamilton Regional Cancer Centre, Professor of Medicine and Clinical Epidemiology and Biostatistics, and the Buffett Taylor Chair Breast Cancer Research, McMaster University.

Speakers:

Dr. Hugh Scarth, Clinical Department Head of General Surgery at St. John Regional Hospital.
Dr. Timothy Whelan, Director of the Supportive Cancer Care Research Unit, Hamilton Regional Cancer Centre.
Dr. Maria Hugi from the Canadian Breast Cancer Network, Vancouver.
Ms. Chris Emery, oncology nurse working with three different centres of the B.C. Cancer Agency.

If you or someone you care about has breast cancer, feel free to take part in the information session.
